

Holmium Laser Surgery for Enormous Prostates

Some men are bigger than others, and this also applies to the prostate. HoLEP is an excellent technique for all prostates, but it really comes into its own for the treatment of the very large prostate (greater than 150g). When compared to other techniques, the surgery is less invasive, there is less bleeding with a much lower chance of needing a blood transfusion, and hospital stay. We have an extensive experience in treating the very large prostate, and are often referred patients from other centres because of this expertise.
